RUSSIA'S PRISONERS
NOW NUMBER 164,000

Evacuation of Czernowitz
Appears to Have Taken Place or to Be Imminent.

Petrograd, June 17.—The Russians, continuing their offensive along the Austrian front from the Kovel region to the river Pruth, have taken an additional 14,000 prisoners. It was officially announced here yesterday. This brings the total of prisoners up to 164,000.

London, June 17.—There is no official confirmation of the capture of Czernowitz, but the Russians are now driving westward toward Stanislaw in an effort to cut the Austrian communication between Lemberg and all southern parts of the line.

If the Russians are successful, the Austrian Czernowitz army will either have to stand its ground or retreat through the Carpathians and down onto the plains of Hungary. For the Russians to reach and occupy the rich farming country of the plains would be a serious blow to the central powers, now practically dependent on the coming harvest for enough food to enable them to continue the war.

Reports from Berlin, Petrograd and Vienna make it patent that the Austrians have stiffened their defense. This is most apparent in the sector directly east of Lemberg, though also noticeable in the Stanislaw region.

The Russians continue to advance steadily in the indentation they have made in the line at Lutsk. The most decided gains are along the line of the Rovno-Lutsk-Kovel railroad, with Kovel the goal. Its capture would be a more decisive blow than the taking of Czernowitz.

Vienna's Latest Report.

Vienna, June 17.—The official war bulletin issued here Thursday night reports another repulse of the Russians north of Czernowitz, but admits that the czar's troops are sweeping around to the west of the city, having crossed the Horodenka-Sniatyn line in the direction of Kolomea. The statement also announces a repulse of the Russian force which is striving to reach Kovel, the important railroad junction southeast of Brest-Litovsk. It follows:

"South of Rojan and north of Czernowitz we repulsed the Russians and frustrated an attempt to cross the Pruth."

"The enemy has crossed the Horodenka-Sniatyn line to the west for a short distance."

"Bitter fighting is in progress near Wisniowozyl. South and west of Lutsk the situation is unchanged."

"Near Lokatchi dismounted cavalry on both sides participated in the fighting."

"Between the Rovno-Kovel railway and Kolki fresh enemy divisions attempted at several points to cross the Stokhod river and the Stry. They were repulsed with heavy losses."

EXAMINING IT.

British and French Governments Studying American Note.

London, June 17.—Sir Maurice de Bunsen, under secretary of the foreign office and formerly British ambassador at Vienna, made the following statement to the Associated Press yesterday regarding the American note protesting against interference with neutral mail:

"The note is being examined by the British and French governments in consultation. The views of the French government have not yet been received in London, therefore, it is impossible to make any public pronouncement upon the contents of the note."

FRENCH PARLIAMENT IN SECRET WAR SESSION

First Time Since Hostilities Began the Chamber of Deputies Deliberated Behind Closed Doors.

Paris, June 17.—For the first time during the course of the war the Chamber of Deputies yesterday afternoon went into secret session after a vote for the holding of such sittings had been passed, 412 to 138.

The purpose of the secret sessions is the discussion of a number of interpellations concerning the conduct of the war, particularly the defensive measures taken at the beginning of the Verdun battle. It is expected that the secret procedure will continue for several days.

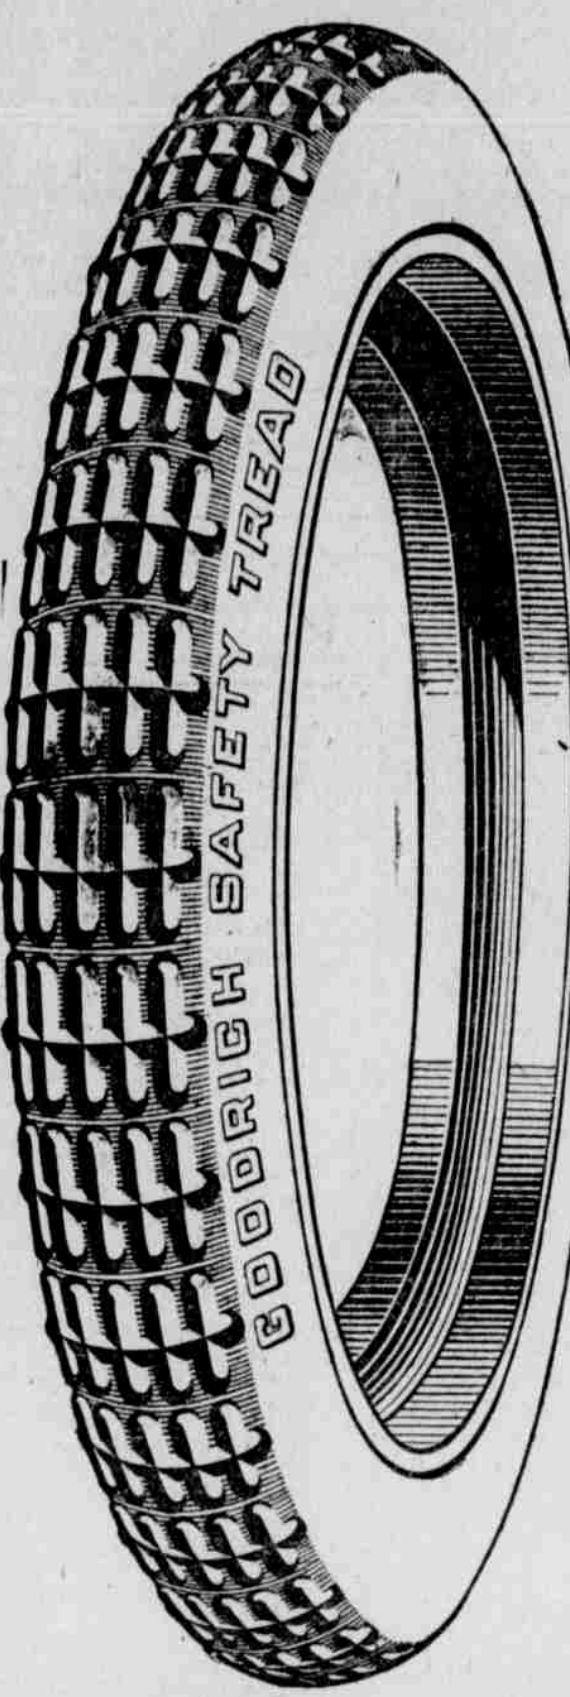

CONGRESS' DELAY VEXES.

Army Appropriation Bill Still to Pass House and Senate.

Washington, June 17.—Officials of the war department are beginning to show concern over the delay on the part of Congress in passing the army appropriation bill, without which the new law increasing the army and providing various new additional features cannot become operative.

The war department had hoped that the appropriation bill would pass in time to permit the money to become available at the beginning of the fiscal year, July 1, but only Thursday the House committee decided to report the measure favorably. As it must pass the Senate after being acted on in the House it is feared that none of the money will be available in time to relieve the troops at Plattsburg and other civilian training camps of the necessity of contributing toward the expenses of their training or to provide for the expenses of the National Guard maneuvers.

Until the money is placed at the disposal of the department nothing can be done toward increasing the recruiting facilities in expanding the size of the army.

The "Gold-Standard"— in Tires

GOODRICH Tire Values are not at all "Accidental."

They spring from Conditions which are logical as the Laws of the Universe.

The best-intentioned Tire Manufacturer cannot AVOID being heavily handicapped when competing against them.

Because, Goodrich "Conditions" summarize into this:

1st—The longest Experience in Mfg. the Product.

2nd—The greatest Leverage on purchasing of Raw Materials at lowest prices, through ability to take largest quantities.

3rd—The lowest Cost of Manufacturing, through largest VOLUME of Output.

4th—The clearly-demonstrated INTENTION to give Consumers and Dealers the full benefit of the large ECONOMIES resulting from possession of the three Cardinal Advantages above defined.

THE Product of such a Rubber-Concern,—when marketed under such conditions,—giving the benefit of such huge Economies to Consumers may well, and logically, be considered—the "GOLD-STANDARD" in Tire Values.

Therefore:—When you pay MORE than the Goodrich Fair-List prices, here printed, for ANY Fabric Tire, you are merely "contributing" the difference.

Because,—You CANNOT get "better" Fabric Tires,—at ANY price! Test them thoroughly,—and see!

ORPET DEFENSE

Gets Setback

Expert Testifies that Liquid Cyanide Killed Girl—Supports Bottle Clue.

Waukegan, Ill., June 17.—The prosecution of Will Orpet added link after link yesterday to the chain of circumstantial evidence to convict Orpet of Marian Lambert's murder. Step by step it sought to build up, through the testimony of poison experts, a wall that the defense must shatter, perhaps only by the testimony of Orpet himself.

When court opened yesterday, with more poison experts ready to take the stand, Assistant State's Attorney Runyard contended that these facts had been established beyond a doubt:

"Cyanide of potassium was administered to Marian Lambert in a liquid form. No container was found near the body. It would have been only natural, if Marian Lambert had killed herself, that a bottle would have been found near the three oaks, where she was found dead. We have shown by analysis of Marian Lambert's gloves and handkerchief that she did not carry the poison in either. Now, we will let the jury draw its own deduction as to what happened to the poison container."

Dr. Ralph J. Webster, whose testimony late yesterday was considered the strongest evidence for the prosecution, was to be cross-examined again yesterday by the defense in an effort to shatter his statement that science proved Miss Lambert's death due to cyanide in a liquid form—not powder, as the defense has contended.

Members of the "eighteen bunch," a club of girls who were Miss Lambert's chums, were in the court room yesterday, waiting anxiously for their chance to testify for the state that Josephine Davis, who said Miss Lambert was despondent a few days before her death, was mistaken.

The "bunch" was released from the Deerfield township high school yesterday, most of them by graduation. The exercises were conducted Thursday night. Marian Lambert would have been graduated with them if she had lived. Josephine Davis' chair on the platform was vacant, too. She was testifying to save Orpet when the final examinations were conducted and was not graduated.

"I was the only girl that ever really knew Marian," Miss Davis said yesterday. "What I told on the stand was true. Marian did threaten suicide. Now the other girls are sore at me because they think I betrayed a chum."

The defense has discovered another witness in Miss Verne Jackson, another girl chum of Miss Lambert. Miss Jackson said yesterday that Miss Lambert seemed despondent.

ROOKIES APPLAUD WOOD.

Plattsburgers Hear the General at Night Meeting.

Plattsburg, N. Y., June 17.—Major General Leonard Wood, commanding the department of the east, visited the camp of military instruction here Thursday, talking with many of the citizen soldiers. General Wood then held a long conference with the officers. At night he addressed the "rookies," who sat on the ground in a semi-circle and frequently applauded his words. He spoke on the necessity of preparedness and in advocacy of camps of military instruction. Among other things he said he hoped to see at least 50,000 civilians at the Plattsburg camps next year.
